Sarah Moffat
Federal COO, U.S. Federal Government

An award-winning strategic innovator and compelling speaker with nearly two decades in federal IT, Sarah C. Moffat has navigated the federal IT landscape from various angles, including cybersecurity, communication, human resources, and workforce development. Her extensive experience spans the public and private sectors, granting her remarkable insights into diverse federal domains, from aviation and administration to defense and healthcare. Sarah embodies the essence of leadership and effective communication, and she is known for her passion for storytelling as a critical business skill. Leveraging real-life experiences, she emphasizes how organizations can harness the synergy between technology and organizational change management to foster success and growth.

As a Chief Operating Officer in federal HR, Sarah manages daily operations, leading the human capital IT division, encompassing critical areas like data governance, information systems, and development. Her career also includes pivotal roles in federal IT leadership at esteemed institutions such as the National Institutes of Health's Center for Information Technology, the Department of Veterans Affairs, and the Department of Health and Human Services' Office of the Chief Information Officer.

Sarah's exceptional contributions have earned her the Health IT Leader of the Year award from AFFIRM in 2022. Additionally, the Executive Women's Forum for Information Security, Risk Management, & Privacy honored her as the Woman of Influence in 2022 (Public Sector/Academia).