

Jen McFarland serves as product champion of Agile, DevOps, and Project Management programs at Learning Tree International, a global learning company which provides mission-critical IT and leadership training and certifications supporting the effective implementation of IT initiatives, process improvement, and transformative enterprise solutions.