

Jason Mullins, CISSP

Cyber Risk Information Assurance Services
Office of the Chief Information Officer
U.S. Department of Education

Jason Mullins is an Information Assurance professional serving in a variety of IA and Cybersecurity related roles over the last 23 years. His background includes work across multiple industries and includes systems engineering and design, Cybersecurity Policy and Enterprise Risk Management Guidance, and Supply Chain Risk Management. Jason currently oversees the Information and Communication Technology Supply Chain Risk Management (ICT SCRIM) program at the Department of Education.