

Beth Killoran
Chief Information Officer
Government Accountability Office

Beth Killoran is the Government Accountability Office CIO where she is charged with establishing an agency-wide technology that ensures effective information security and privacy controls, system interoperability, and information sharing. Prior to GAO, she served as the GSA deputy CIO for 4 years. She held the position of Department of Health and Human Services chief information officer for 3 years and before that was executive director of HHS' Office of IT Strategy, Policy and Governance. She also worked in various IT positions at DHS for 11 years and Department of Treasury for 9 years. Beth has been a member of AFFIRM for a few years now.